

Are You Making the Most of Student Feedback and Course Evaluations?

Join us in launching the first venue of the Composition Committee's Practical Pedagogy Workshop Series.

Gather round to discuss how to make the most of student feedback. In this interactive roundtable, members of the Composition Committee share strategies for using course evaluations, specifically, and ways to incorporate student input in course design and development more generally. If you're waiting till the end of the term to do course evaluations, for example, too late! Midterm, or even 5th and 10th week, evaluations can be much more valuable for (y)our pedagogies. Come one and all.

Good conversation and chocolate are guaranteed, all in 45 minutes.
